

DESIGNER BULLY / CERTIFIED DESIGNER BULLY

Designer Bully (DB) and Certified Designer Bully (CDB) are a blood-line based breed. As in all breeds, particular strains and lines carry distinct looks and traits dominant in a way it stands on its own and aside from its counter parts.

Although it is in the early stages of the registration process, the blood and look has more than established itself in the bully world and as a registry we feel that along with Luis we document the process along its journey. As in most things in its infancy, processes and standards will be looked at and reamended accordingly if needed for the betterment of the breed and community in general.

Designer Bully: Offspring containing (Bape, etc.) within 3 generations of verified ABR registration pedigree, in either sire or dam. Each individual DB will require pictures if requested and proof prior to registration being completed. Dogs must maintain (Bape, etc.) in the pedigree for a minimum 4 generations to maintain the Designer Bully registration.

All litters will be verified and reviewed by ABR prior to receiving registration to ensure and protect studbooks moving forward. Certified Designer Bully: Offspring containing (Bape, etc.) In both sire and dam pedigree and within 4 generations of registered Offspring.

As with DB's each CDB registration if asked by office, will require pictures and proof prior to registration completion. Both pedigrees will need to maintain 4 generations of said bloods to hold CDB registration. Designer Bully and Certified Designer Bully registrations will in a manner be followed like that of a closed studbook. Only dogs with bloodlines listed above will receive the Designer Bully and Certified Designer Bully registration.
